December 2021

Last week I was off for a "most excellent adventure" with some of the grandkids for Thanksgiving, but also to celebrate our 51st wedding anniversary! Flying to and from Anchorage was a "not so excellent adventure" but the airlines did DOWNGRADE our seats for free...we didn't even have to ask.

Beautiful, majestic and very cold, in Alaska we saw another side of creation. Marcia and I drove through Denali National Park and Preserve to Fairbanks, to Santa Claus House - North Pole, Alaska (big stop for the grandkids!) and Chena Hot Springs Resort just to name a few, and enjoyed Hawaiian breakfast, halibut, salmon fireweed jelly and more!

This trip is a reminder to me that God is good when things go well, but also when flights are canceled, ears are freezing and black ice appears! Thank you all for keeping us in your prayers as we were able to see first hand just how diverse God's artwork is, AND have a little peaceful recharge with family!

There are lots of things to do together as a church family and opportunities to get to know some wonderful members of the church!

Sunday School: 9:45 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall

Stained Glass: Tuesday and Thursday 9:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Men's Breakfast – Thursday 7:30 a.m. at Lorelei.

On Tuesdays the sanctuary is open for prayer. 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Book Club: No book club in December. Next meeting is January 19 when members will read "The Circle Maker" by Mark Batterson. We will learn to pray circles around our biggest dreams and greatest fears. Kathy Sill has copies of the book for $5. Mark your calendar and join us in January.

Bible Study: Thursdays at 7 pm with Rob Kolb in Fellowship Hall. We have been getting really good reports about the Bible Study time—from those who are Bible experts and those wanting to learn more.

Faith: Hebrews- October - Dec 2021
Hope: Romans - January - March 2022
Love: John - April - June 2022

Monthly Lunch after Church Service: Monthly lunches after the church service have resumed. On November 18 there was a terrific cover dish meal just like Methodists are so famous for. See page 11 for sample recipes.

Free Books: Please feel free to take a book from the narthex for you or to share with someone.

December 2021

The Library in Fellowship Hall will be open Sundays - just before and after church service.

Check out all the great books there that you can borrow! Religious books, inspirational books, educational books and popular novels too.

Prayer List:

Please remember those on our prayer list and others who are struggling this holiday season:

Mike Bier's family, Mark Cockerham, Chuck Darney, Sue Gustafson, Blake Bennett, Rich Katroschi, Pat, Larry Rail, Eugen, Randy Baad and Family, Judy Nicholson, Russ, Jim Reynolds, Dasha Dmitrievna, Emma Kuchynskaya, Slava, Larisa, Marlene & Ray Law, Joan Larouche, Craig Lindback, Cris White, Matt Hendel & Linda Whitman, Terry & Marvin Snow, Jeanne, Art Bain, and Danny Collins, Lin and Larry Balog.

If you have updates for the prayer list, call the church office.

Lighting the Advent Candles:

We light four candles: 1. The Prophecy Candle represents the period of waiting before the birth of Christ; 2. The Bethlehem Candle is a symbol of the preparations made to receive the Christ child; 3. The Shepherd's Candle commemorates the act of sharing the good news of Christ's coming; 4. The Angel's Candle speaks of love and the actual coming of Christ.

Arlene Martin and Lisa Emmert lit the Prophecy Candle .

Stained Glass enthusiast: One of our church's stained glass "groupies," Carol Wagner, and her husband Ron, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary recently. They took a trip to Jekyll Island, Georgia. Carol was jubilant to see the magnificent Tiffany stained glass window at the Faith Chapel in the historic district of the island. And Carol and Ron were not the only ones celebrating an important anniversary. This year, Jekyll Island is celebrating the 100th Anniversary of Faith Chapel's Tiffany window! The window was created by the Ecclesiastical Department of Tiffany Studios in New York City and was installed at the chapel in 1921, 100 years ago.

The Wagner's also visited the smallest church in America on their trip. The tiny church is just 10' x 15' and has pews for 12 people. Carol was thrilled to see that this tiny church, built for travelers passing through, small as the church is, also had a beautiful stained glass window.

Carol brought back commemorative cards about the anniversary of the Tiffany window for book club members and recommended the book "Clara and Mr. Tiffany" by Susan Vreeland, a fictionalized story of Clara Driscoll and the years she worked with Louis Comfort Tiffany in New York.

Special Music: We are so fortunate to have Rich Russell to provide songs he composes—here's one he wrote for his wife, Mary: click here

The congregation was treated to Rich singing this song during the November 28 church service.

Christmas Spirit in Islamorada:

Church member and Islamorada Village Councilman, Henry Rosenthal, loves Christmas and the spirit of the season. After elected to Council in November 2020, Henry asked the Village to make the holidays more festive in Islamorada by adding more Christmas decorations.

It took a year but in November, Village Council approved significantly more Christmas decorations than we've had in the past.

The Islamorada welcome sign, the North Plantation Key stop light, Founders Park, the Hurricane Monument and the southern entrance to Islamorada at Craig Key, are decorated with LED lights, garland, wreaths, interactive selfie features, pole mounted and ground level decorations. A favorite is the decorated stately palms and the huge bright Christmas ball in front of the Hurricane Monument creating a fantastic "photo opportunity."

Henry has even more ideas for next Christmas. Thank you Henry for bringing more Christmas cheer to Islamorada.

Christmas Traditions: Christmas is celebrated is both a sacred religious holiday and a worldwide cultural and commercial phenomenon. It's the most wonderful time of the year when families come together to delight in time-honored traditions. Decorated trees, cheerful ornaments, classic holiday songs and hymns, candle light church services are just some of the things we look forward to during the Christmas season. But, how have these celebrations changed over time? Join us as we take a peek into Christmas stories from the past told by some of our church members.

Carol Wagner has fond memories of her Aunt Millie arriving at Christmas time from Worthington, Massachusetts, loaded down with gallons of homemade maple syrup from Millie's sugar house on the farm. Carol has never forgotten that special treat every Christmas – "The best maple syrup I ever tasted." There are just a few farmers in New England that "sugar" the traditional way – "tapping out" buckets of sap, boiling it with a hardwood fire to ensure the original maple flavor. Carol was lucky she had Aunt Millie when she was a child. Most of us settle for the Log Cabin variety of syrup with the artificial flavoring.

Judy Winstel remembers teaching Sunday School in a class of 3-4 year olds. At Christmas they dressed up as shepherds and wise men for a church program using bathrobes, sheets and towels to create the costumes. For most of the young kids, it was their first taste of the Bible story about the birth of Jesus. How thrilled they were to be a part of the congregation's Christmas celebration, proudly stepping onto the stage in front of an audience of over 100 members of the church.

Barbara Haudenshield: Christmas has become such a huge commercial time of year in recent decades, people start decorating even before Thanksgiving. When I was a young child in the 1930's, Christmas Eve meant going to bed very promptly so Santa Claus would come. Years later, I understood that discipline as Santa not only brought tangerines, walnuts, and trinkets to put in the stockings and nice gifts for under the tree, but he also brought the tree, strung the lights, added fancy glass ornaments, and hung the tinsel on that tree. The most memorable of those years was the one when I finished opening the gifts under the tree before I saw a really special gift.... a Toy Manchester Terrier puppy on the window sill.

I am not sure how my parents got to bed so I could, excitedly, wake them up early to go downstairs to see if Santa had come! And, we never questioned how all that stuff came from his sleigh!?!

We lived in a small close knit neighborhood of about 100 families with a park centrally located. As a Brownie, then a Girl Scout, I was part of a troop that decided to raise money to build a one room cabin with a large fireplace and kitchenette, in the park. We girls did various kinds of jobs for anyone and everyone, charging a quarter an hour. After several years our dream came true, surely with some financial support we weren't aware of at the time. The cabin was built. There was a large pine tree in the park and a new Christmas Eve tradition emerged with the whole neighborhood gathering about 8 o'clock to sing Christmas carols around the decorated tree, then gathering in the Girl Scout cabin for hot cider and cookies.

Esther Dieujuste reports that in Haiti when she was young, each year the churches wrote and recorded an original song which was entered into a contest. The recordings were played in November and part of December and then a winner was declared.

Sue Miller: When I was in kindergarten, a small public elementary school in 1949, my class, just 15 of us, were to memorize the story of the birth of Jesus from the Bible, Luke 2:8-14. I was the only one in the kindergarten able to remember the whole thing. Shy as I was, I got up on the stage and recited: "And in that region there were shepherds out in the field...." When I was done, I heard my big sister cheering! I'll never forget that Bible verse or my big sister's cheers. She still cheers for me. But I don't think there are still public school children reciting from the Bible for Christmas programs.

Sending Christmas cards was an important tradition for the Spences. My dad was an amateur photographer long before digital cameras. He developed the film in a makeshift darkroom – our one and only bathroom! Certainly disrupting bath time.

Dad created unique Christmas cards starring his three daughters. The Christmas card tradition continued until my mother died in 1994. The Christmas cards were the Spence family's opportunity to keep in touch with special friends. When the cards were exchanged, happy memories came to mind of the joys people bring to each other. Before she died, my mother had over 500 dear friends she kept in touch with every Christmas via the unique and personal cards, hand addressed with personal notes on most.

Gail Gargano: Gail grew up in the Bronx. She remembers what a close-knit neighborhood it was – stores along the street with apartments above all along "the Avenue." Every day after school the kids all played outside. Everyone knew everyone in the neighborhood. Gail's father, Paul, owned Paul's 5¢ & 10¢ store. The store was a true department store, selling toys, small appliances, fabric and yarn, hardware, magazines, candy and more. Gail worked at the store from when she was 12 until she graduated from college. Gail's family worked long hours during the Christmas season and well after normal closing hours on Christmas Eve, to make sure that all of their customers were able to get Christmas decorations and special gifts before the big day.

When she was five, Gail got a Shirley Temple doll for Christmas, her dream come true! And then every Christmas her dad placed the doll dressed in Christmas pajamas under a Christmas tree that decorated their store window. Christmas day was a rare day off and the whole family, including aunts and uncles and cousins gathered to eat, play cards and board games and then eat some more.

Rich Russell remembers that Ruth Albury, the youth choir director at Matecumbe United Methodist Church, had a pump organ and from about 1962 to 1968 the church kids were loaded into a couple trucks with the organ and made several stops around town singing Christmas carols, much to the delight of local residents.

Each year through the 1990's Rev. Dick Smith directed a Christmas Cantata on a Sunday night before Christmas, featuring both the adult choir (Oma Russell director) and the youth choir (Ruth Albury director).

Some familiar names were in that choir: Rich Russell, Juanita Russell Knudsen, Kirby Klys, Janet Wood, Alan Wood, Randy Baad, Carl Lindback, Danny Cockerham, JC Russell, Buddy and Jack Pinder, Frankie and Gary Brothers and Sheryl Guerry.

Ken Knudsen: What stories the Knudsens can tell!

Ken's mother, Cynthia, now 93, loved to ride horses through Central Park as a young teenager, so it was quite a celebration in 1945 when she received her very own horse for Christmas at age 14. But perhaps Cynthia's most fascinating Christmas memories were of her uncle who in the early 1920s, when commercial transatlantic flights were a novel thing, flew across the Atlantic to play the banjo for England's Queen Mary!

When he was just a small child, Ken remembers riding around Miami in a red Ford pick-up truck with his father, a construction supervisor, visiting job sites. At the young age of 5, Ken got a steel erector set for Christmas as he surely wanted to be able to build just like dad.

Ken's funniest story – when Rachel and K.C. were quite young, they crawled into bed together on Christmas Eve, barely able to sleep as they were so anxious for Santa to arrive. In the middle of the night they finally heard noises – that clatter on the rooftop – surely the “miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer....” Little did they know, their dad had crawled up on the rooftop and was jumping up and down sounding just like jolly ole St. Nick.

Henry Rosenthal recalls when he was about four years old the family returned home on Christmas Eve from a visit with his grandparents. When he got home, his father picked him up and rushed him through the living room to his bedroom. What was going on! Young Henry didn't know why he was restricted in this way. Santa had come a bit early to put up the Christmas tree and decorate both the tree and living room, leaving gifts.

His parents were trying to hide the decorated living room and hold off the excitement reserved for Christmas Day when Henry was supposed to wake up early and see what Santa did “overnight.” Henry still remembers how upset he was... Over 75 years later!

Kathy Sill and her family traveled for over 12 hours when she was young to visit the grandparents in Oklahoma every Christmas. The car was crowded with three kids, parents, two dachshunds and a trunk full of gifts and suitcases. The roads were often icy. Her grandparents lived on a farm so the kids loved to see the cows, chickens, guinea fowl, and the horse. They pushed the stray cat around the farm in a baby buggy. When they got to the farm for Christmas they would cut down a fresh pine tree and help decorate it with glass ornaments, lights and tinsel. Grandma was adored by the kids, loving her fresh baked coconut candy, fudge and cookies. Kathy caught her very first fish at the pond on the farm with a cane pole. No they didn't eat it – it was a goldfish.

It was when Kathy was about 7-8 years old that she first figured out that she had been tricked, regarding Santa. The adults sent the kids out to the barn and when they returned to the farmhouse, there were the gifts from Santa Claus! Kathy just knew that something wasn't right! She knew then that Santa wasn't real.

Borden Makepeace: Born in 1934, Borden insists that his memory is just fine. In fact he remembers Christmas when he was just three years old. He had a cousin 10 weeks older than he was and they went to their grandparents for Christmas. There were two wonderful gifts, riding toys. Borden loved one and his cousin loved the other. It wasn't until the next day that Borden found out that both had been gifts for him. So why was his cousin riding his Christmas present? A major fight between the boys ensued with loads of screaming.

Borden reported that back then, he had hair but no teeth. His cousin had teeth but no hair. With no hair for Borden to pull, Borden pulled both of his cousin's ears. Borden's aunt, the cousin's mother, insisted that the fight was fair as, after all, it was Borden's riding toy!

Hard to imagine that Borden would be a fighter, but if you have no hair, you might want to stay away from Borden and his wheelchair.

Smiles at the Convalescent Center

Shopping Day: Members of the Methodist Church and the Community Ministries at First Baptist created a joint project to bring smiles to residents of the Convalescent Center on Plantation Key. On Friday, Nov 19, the two organizations created a one day boutique with a variety of personal items: donated clothes, jewelry, blankets and stuffed animals. The residents "bought" items of their choice. Their payment - the rewarding smiles residents displayed. Nan Inches came up with this idea and what a great event it was. The plan was such a success, the volunteers hope to do it quarterly.

Christmas Trees For Resident's Rooms

Nan Inches, Carol Wagner, Arlene Martin and Betty Pfeifer assembled 70 small artificial trees, added fairy battery lights, glitter ornaments, sea shells, and a snowflake topper for the convalescent home residents to decorate their rooms for the holidays!

Talk about smiles! The residents of the convalescent center really love the special attention they get from our church family.

Ladies Lunch to Bring More Smiles to the Convalescent Center

Saturday Dec 4 there was a ladies lunch at Fellowship Hall—a great opportunity to socialize while also supporting the special mission to bring Christmas to residents of the nursing home. Nursing home residents made up a wish list and the ladies at the lunch could adopt a resident by contributing to purchase items from the wish list.

And what a lovely luncheon it was, Thank you!
